DaProSystems named year's top small business in Technology.

The company was among those honored by Roanoke's chamber of commerce.

Roanoke, VA – October 1, 2008 The Roanoke Regional Chamber of Commerce has named DaProSystems the 2008 Small Business of the Year for the Technology Category.

The awards showcased the accomplishments of the small business sector, which comprises 99 percent of the area's business community.

"This year's competition was one of the toughest," said Joyce Waugh, interim chamber president. "The selection committee agonized over many outstanding companies." ¹

A committee of local businesspeople evaluates nominees in terms of increased sales, employee growth, staying power, innovation and contributions to the community.

To be eligible, companies must meet SBA small business standards and be at least 3 years old.

"DaProSystems is celebrating our 25th anniversary this year and is honored to be recognized by the Chamber for our accomplishments in the Technology field," said John Lewis, DaProSystems' President and Chief Executive Officer. "We would like thank BB&T's Jenn Gaston for nominating us for this prestigious award". Jenn Gaston is an Assistant Vice President and Business Services Officer for BB&T in their Relationship Banking division.
